

Community

Our firm has been walking the walk for decades when it comes to community engagement and service. Practicing the profession of the law is about far more than billing time and running a business, it is about making our community and our world a better place through our work and our impact.

We take great pride in being engaged citizens and encourage robust participation by all attorneys and staff in the organizations that make Northern Virginia and the Washington, D.C. metropolitan region such a vibrant place to live, work and play. We are tutors in schools and supporters of pro bono legal services. We serve on nonprofit boards and as leaders in community organizations. We are volunteer coaches for youth sports and active within our faith communities and alumni groups. We walk, run, play kickball, collect food and clothing and open our checkbooks to support local charities. It's important to us to be active citizens of impact to help shape and encourage the success of our community.
